Kiddo's by Christmas

Angie's House will truly be the most wonderful time of the Year for our Kids

NEWSLETTER FALL 2019

We are quickly approaching our return to Burma. There is a genuine excitement in the air as the folks there await our arrival. We will have a full agenda this trip. The completion of Angie's House has the whole village in great anticipation. Villagers come every day to watch the house being built. Pastors and village elders are also coming to enquire and show their support. When we purchased the campus land, there was nothing around us but rice farms. Since then, most of the farmland owners have sold their lands for housing developments. They are taking one-acre tracts and subdividing them into 6 to 8 lots for houses. God is strategically placing us in the middle of this new growing Buddhist neighborhood where we will be able to minister and help thousands in our new community! Everything we are developing will help to serve this purpose, setting us up to advance the Kingdom!

ANGIE'S HOUSE

This year, our staff and contractors have been working very hard to bring to life Angie's House for our very own Christmas Miracle! All of you who have been giving to these projects are ensuring our children in Angie's House will have hope and a brighter future. Our orphanage director will not have to be bothered with unexpected rent increases that stress an already tight budget. She will not be forced to move because of increases or leases being broken without recourse. The children will all have their own beds and a place to run and play that is safe. NuLin, our orphanage director, will have her own room that she doesn't have to share for the first time in her life. This is just the start of discipling and preparing these kids for life.

JEHOVAH JIREH FARMS

There is so much work going on in all areas of ministry. Jehovah Jireh Farms was sown in sunflowers this past spring, as a result of crop rotation. These sunflowers are harvested exclusively for cooking oil. They are truly a beautiful sight to watch – seven acres of sunflowers in bloom. After the sunflower harvest, we dug a much-needed irrigation ditch that permitted us to get more water on the field and allowed us to plant our rice on-time with the rains. Again, we had favor and were able to plant when many of our neighbors could not. We are expecting a greater harvest again this season.

POY A MEH SEWING SCHOOL

In nine weeks, we will graduate another class of young women from the Poy A Meh Sewing School. We look forward to teaching there and seeing all they have learned. Their excitement is a fun experience to share. It is always humbling to hear their gratitude for being provided an opportunity they could not get anywhere else. Currently we are using a rented space that has no electricity. We still maintain a 3-year waiting list simply because we have no room. These at-risk girls are eager to learn in fact, one 15-year-old girl traveled 200 miles by herself just to ask us if we would train her. Thanks to your generosity, these girls will never be lured into trafficking.

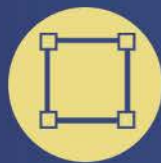

SCHOOL OF THE HARVESTERS

Our new institute will train and equip nationals with proven methods to reach their community, country, and across international borders to reach and disciple. We are located well within the 10/40 window between China and India. The nation of Myanmar is over 90% Buddhist. We will be sending out harvesters annually. We look forward to sharing with the School of the Harvesters inaugural class. There are so many great things taking place, so many lives being affected and being changed through each of these ministries. All of it is made possible by you our partners. For this we are eternally Thankful!

INTRODUCING: The Legacy Center

3 STORIES

7500 SQ. FT.

$24 PER SQ. FT.

We would like to introduce an exciting, new development – The Legacy Center, “where shepherds will become kings and handmaidens become queens”. This 7,500-square-foot, three-story facility will be the main hub of activity for our campus. Part of the first floor will be the new home for our Poy A Meh Sewing School, while the other part will be dedicated to training young men or women in carpentry, mechanics, and electrical repair. The second floor will be the home of our brand-new School of the Harvesters – our missions and evangelistic training institute. This floor will also have a computer lab that we will use to teach computer skills and programs to students, orphans, and the community at large, so they may become more marketable. It will be a tremendous community development and outreach program. Our third floor will be open air, making it ideal to use as a training area during the hot summer months. Here, we will host weekly English classes, entrepreneurial courses, and many other training programs. The floor will also serve as a break area and even guest quarters for students and visitors. After reviewing architectural drawings and contractor bids, we know we can build it for $24 per square foot. We will begin construction in January.

*This year has been such a blessing –
we have seen God's hand move miraculously.
We are so very thankful to each of you who have sown into these projects, making dreams come true! Without you, our Partners,
there would be no Angie's House, Jehovah Jireh Farms,
Sewing School, or School of the Harvesters.
To each of you we say, "Thank you!"
We pray that you are increased and prospered at every level!
"Blessed are those who lend to the poor"*

(Psalm 41:1)
